LIBERALS WIN SWEEPING VICTORY

OFFENSIVE IS APPROVED BY FIFTY NATIONS

Action Against Italians on Economic Front Will Start at Once

ITALY HAS BITTER PILL TO SWALLOW

By JOSEPH E. SHARKEY
Associated Press Foreign Staff
GENEVA, Oct. 14 (AP).—Financial sanctions designed to strangle Italy in money matters and force Premier Mussolini to halt his war in Ethiopia, were approved tonight by half a hundred nations.

Tomorrow, an offensive on the economic front will begin. At the close of one of the most hectic days Geneva has seen since the beginning of the war in Africa, Anthony Eden, of Great Britain, took the time to inform the League that Britain has officially lifted an arms embargo against Ethiopia. He thus created the impression that the sending of weapons to permit the "King of Kings" to wage a real fight against Italy has already begun in considerable proportions.

MAINTAINING EMBARGO
Simultaneously, Eden announced, Britain's embargo of arms to Italy would be maintained. These steps were the first recommended by the League when it began to apply sanctions.

The official summary of the financial blockade programme calls upon League states to make the following transactions possible: All direct and indirect loans, subscriptions to loans, bankers or other credits, issues of shares or other appeals for money for the purpose of obtaining funds for the Italian Government or for Italian public bodies, or for persons and corporations in Italian territory.

A BITTER PILL
ROME, Oct. 14 (AP).—The passage by the League of Nations of a resolution involving a financial blockade of Italy was considered in high circles here, tonight, as just one of many bitter pills this nation is prepared to swallow until military enforcement of these sanctions comes along.

In informed financial quarters, it was explained, the League measure will likely stimulate the drain on Italy's gold reserve, inasmuch as credit facilities for exports and imports have been largely transacted by Italy through London bank operations, which will be now cut off.

OPERATED ON IN HOWLING STORM

MONTREAL, Oct. 14 (AP).—Details of a physician's fight to save the life of a child in the operating room of the Hotel Athena as it bucked its way through a howling storm off the coast of Newfoundland, were unfolded today with arrival of the vessel.

An ambulance met the ship and hurried off to hospital eight-year-old John Reid, of Toronto, who, physicians said, had a good chance to recover from an acute attack of gangrenous appendix and peritonitis.

Mackenzie King Declares Trust in Liberal Party Will Not Be Betrayed—Congratulates Workers on Success of Election Campaign

OTTAWA, Oct. 14 (AP).—The statement of Right Hon. Mackenzie King, when the result of today's voting was known, was as follows:

"I thank the people of Canada for the confidence they have today expressed in Liberal principles and policies, in the Liberal Party and in myself as its leader.

"The Liberal party has again a great cause, which was begun the moment the Liberal party went into opposition in 1930, and which has been carried forward with increasing vigor and determination.

CLASH THOUGHT MOST SERIOUS

Russians Charge Military Clique Trying to Fan Friction With Soviet

MOSCOW, Oct. 14 (AP).—A weekend clash between Russian and Manchurian frontier patrols was called in Soviet circles today a most serious incident, but was not regarded as a threat of war.

No answer had been received to a strong protest made in Tokyo by the Russian ambassador. Until it has been received, the official press withheld comment.

Russian circles said a Japanese military clique was trying to fan friction with Russia so that large armed forces would be kept in Manchukuo.

CLAIMS INDIANS WERE DRUNKEN

Witness at Murder Trial Tells of Home Brew On Reserve

VANCOUVER, Oct. 14 (AP).—Evidence of a party in Chief Buckskin Billy's house on the Canford Reserve on the night preceding the slaying of Dominion Indian Constable F. H. Gilmour and Provincial Police Constable Percy Carr was given in Assize Court today at the trial of the four George brothers, charged with the murder of Gilmour.

BROKE IT ON ROCK.
Tommy Andrew, forty-two-year-old Coldwater Indian, testified Chief Billy and two women were intoxicated with homebrew. He said the chief gave him a gallon and a half of the liquor which he purposely broke on a rock outside the house.

When he heard a fight start between the police officers and the Indians, Andrews said he ran into a nearby house, where he heard a shot. He said Richardson George started the fight. The trial adjourned until tomorrow morning.

C.C.F. Candidate in Nanaimo Riding Victor in Four-Cornered Contest

J. S. Taylor, C.C.F. candidate, was elected member for Nanaimo riding in the House of Commons yesterday, being victor in a four-cornered contest. He succeeds C. H. Dickie, Conservative, who has represented the constituency since 1921.

Mr. Taylor had a lead of 788 votes over his nearest opponent, Mr. Dickie, the Canadian Press reported last night.

The official tally gave the candidates' votes as follows: J. S. Taylor, C.C.F., 8,803; C. H. Dickie, Conservative, 6,015; Alan Chambers, Liberal, 5,970; Aubrey M. Clark, Reconstructionist, 551; total votes cast, 19,339. Mr. Clark lost his deposit.

However, seven more polls are still to be heard from officially, and possibly 1,435 ballots in those divisions have yet to be considered.

Mr. Taylor issued the following statement last night:

"I am told that I have been elected."

B.C. Sends Variety Of Parties to House In Hectic Election

Issues in Burrard Still in Doubt, With McGeer and Webster Alternating in Victory Claim—Conservatives Elect 5, Liberals 4 and C.C.F. 3

VANCOUVER, Oct. 15 (AP).—At 1:30 a.m. today, R. G. Phipps, returning officer in Vancouver Burrard, announced a revised count which gave Arnold Webster, C.C.F. candidate, a majority of 131 over Mayor G. G. McGeer, Liberal.

With a number of outlying polls to hear from but which, except in Cariboo are not sufficiently large to affect the result, British Columbia elected five Conservatives, four Liberals, three C.C.F. candidates, and the lone Reconstructionist, Hon. H. H. Stevens, who remains of his party; one independent, A. W. Neill, Comox-Alberni, was re-elected. This left Cariboo in the doubtful column, as also is Vancouver-Burrard.

Arrested on Trying to Climb Wall

ADDIS ABABA, Oct. 13 (CP-Havas).—Caught by Ethiopian guards as he attempted to scale the wall of the Italian Legation here last night, G. L. Suer, war correspondent of The Times (London) and The New York Times, was beaten by the guards and held under arrest until Emperor Haile Selassie ordered his immediate release. Suer said he tried to penetrate the interior in the course of his work as a journalist.

J. S. TAYLOR

Conservative Candidate Retains Seat With Majority Of Almost 1,000 in Largest Poll on Record—C.C.F. and Liberal Candidates Receive Substantial Support—One Deposit Lost

IN face of a smashing Liberal victory across Canada, Victoria returned a Conservative yesterday by the election of D. B. Plunkett by a substantial majority for the third successive time. In excess of 21,233 persons went to the polls in the largest vote ever recorded at any election in this riding. Mr. Plunkett's majority over his nearest opponent, Prof. J. King Gordon, C.C.F., was within fourteen ballots of being 1,000. One candidate, Percival E. George, Reconstructionist, lost his deposit.

A. W. NEILL IS AGAIN ELECTED

Comox-Alberni Riding Gives Independent Candidate Overwhelming Majority

A. W. Neill, Independent candidate, was the choice of Comox-Alberni electors yesterday as their representative in the House of Commons at Ottawa, having secured at the polls an overwhelming majority over his nearest opponent, Colin Cameron, C.C.F. nominee.

Counted a total of 3,706 votes counted last night, Mr. Neill had obtained 3,744, as compared with 1,975 for Mr. Cameron, a lead of 1,769, the Canadian Press reported.

The standing is sixty-six polls out of 104 is as follows: Neill, 3,774; Cameron, 1,975; Reece Hague, Conservative, 1,309; M. Mackinnon, Labor, 697; and E. R. Tarling, Reconstructionist, 51.

The almost two-to-one lead over Cameron secured by Mr. Neill moves any doubt about the outcome of the Comox-Alberni riding, despite the fact that there are still thirty-eight polls to hear from.

The majority of the unheard-from polls are situated at isolated places on the west coast of Vancouver Island, and some of them in more or less isolated parts of the east coast. An indication of how sparsely populated are some of the areas is contained in the report from one division, where only one vote was recorded, and that was in favor of Mr. Neill.

Mr. Neill has represented Comox-Alberni in the Federal House since 1921.

New Government Will Have Large Majority in New House—Ontario Leaves Conservative Allegiance—Reconstructionists Only Elect H. H. Stevens—Social Crediters Take Bulk of Alberta Seats

LIBERALS swept into office yesterday in one of the greatest political landslides in the history of the Dominion. The Bennett Government, which had held office for five years, was hurled from power by the electors, leaving only a remnant of the Conservative army to occupy the seats of the Opposition in the next House. At 3 o'clock this morning a compilation made at Toronto by the Canadian Press showed 165 Liberals elected, with only forty-one Conservatives and a sprinkling of other parties, of which the Social Crediters had thirteen and the C.C.F. seven. The Reconstructionist Party, headed by Hon. H. H. Stevens, which seriously split the votes of the Conservatives in a number of ridings, were wiped from the political slate with the exception of Mr. Stevens himself.

The four political leaders in the last House, Prime Minister R. B. Bennett, Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Hon. H. H. Stevens and J. S. Woods were all favored in their home constituencies. The Bennett Cabinet was decimated. Among the prominent Conservative leaders who lost the confidence of their constituents was Hon. R. J. Manion, who was defeated in Fort William; Hon. Robert Weir, Minister of Agriculture, also went down in the crash of his party, as did Hon. W. A. Gordon, Minister of Labor and Mines, who had to concede defeat in a closely-contested fight. Hon. R. B. Hanson, who succeeded Hon. H. H. Stevens as Minister of Trade and Commerce, shared the fate of the majority of his fellow Cabinet members. Solicitor-General Dupre was another Cabinet casualty.

TWO WOMEN ELECTED

Miss Agnes Macphail, the pioneer woman in the Commons, was re-elected from Grey South. She will have a companion in the House, for Mrs. George Black, wife of Hon. George Black, former Speaker, was elected in the Yukon as an Independent Conservative.

From the moment the first returns swept across Canada from the Maritimes, it was evident that the Government had gone down to a crushing defeat, and that the Liberals, under Mr. King, would have a powerful majority over all parties. This was assured when Ontario, traditionally Conservative, started to report Liberal victory upon victory. Quebec, which five years ago had given substantial support to Mr. Bennett in a Liberal province, came back with a rush to the support of Mackenzie King. Twenty seats were taken from the Conservative column, and at an early hour this morning, fifty-five Liberals of the old school, four who styled themselves Independent-Liberals, and only five Conservatives were elected, with but a single seat still in doubt.

VOTING STRENGTH SPLIT

Conservatives had counted on holding the gains made there five years ago, but the Stevens Reconstructionists cut in heavily in the Government vote—enough to cost them a number of seats. The same thing happened in Ontario, when the final count is made it will show an equal number of Liberal seats in that province and Quebec.

In Manitoba, Liberals further entrenched themselves with nine seats, while the Government's wheat policy, which was accounted to help the Conservatives, only brought two seats into the victory column. The C.C.F. also took two, and the Liberal-Progressives a like number. One seat is still considered doubtful.

Saskatchewan returned a single Government supporter and sixteen Liberals, a lone C.C.F. and two Social Crediters, with one seat yet to be fully reported upon.

Alberta, as expected, in view of the recent provincial landslide there, went joyously in favor of the Social Credit candidates, electing eleven followers of Premier Aberhart's doctrines, one Conservative, Prime Minister Bennett, and a single Liberal in an Edmonton seat. Four seats are yet to be fully determined.

British Columbia, as was expected, only rejected Social Credit, but gave her blessing to five Conservatives, four Liberals and an equal number of C.C.F. candidates; and then, for good measure, returned Hon. H. H. Stevens and A. W. Neill, the Independent from Comox-Alberni.

The standing of the parties at the time of going to press, was:

League's Economic Experts Report in Disappointed Tones

So Far Found Impossible to Attack Crisis in World Trade by International Measures—Progress Uneven and Lacks Balance

GENEVA, Oct. 14 (P.)—"Physician, heal thyself!" well might the mocking cry epitomize the advice of economic experts of the League on how to cure the crisis in world trade.

Everywhere doctors—individually and Governments—are at work. They are employing purely national remedies for the disease. "The doctors have not yet been able to agree," a report of the League's economic committee comments in tone of disappointed reproach, "and it has so far been impossible to attack the disease in the proper way—i.e., internationally."

CANNOT CO-ORDINATE

"Accordingly, the malady from which the world is now suffering is no longer entirely the crisis but rather the inability of the countries to co-ordinate their several efforts to emerge from the crisis. This inability to emerge from the... crisis is a result of the paralysis of the international circulation, the regular operation of which is indispensable to the welfare of the civilized nations."

The sixteenth Assembly of the League, representing fifty-four nations, gave its blessing to free international trade. The Secretary of State for the United States sent a telegram of approval. Recovery of trade, the Assembly resolution held, would be assisted by the conclusion by as many countries as possible, of bilateral agreements having for their object the application of a more liberal economic policy.

The resolution held further that the beneficial effects would be more widespread when based on the principle of the most-favored-nation clause. Agricultural experts are, in addition, to be consulted with a view to finding a world solution for agricultural depression.

Documents submitted present a revealing picture of a world where doctors went wrong. Two facts emerge. The first is the steady and very substantial recovery in raw material production and industrial activity. The second is the almost complete stagnation of international trade.

Progress has been uneven and lacked balance. In some countries industry has been remarkably active. Unemployment has been reduced. Prices have been firm or rising. In others, conditions have steadily deteriorated. Up to early Summer, at any rate, falling prices led to business pessimism and a reduction of activity.

BUDGETS AFFECTED

Discontinuance of export trade had meant contraction in the home market. National budgets were affected alike by the weakening of taxpayers' ability to pay and increased expenditure under the heads of unemployment and relief. In many countries, the state had to cover railway deficits. Industrial countries gave relief to agriculture, while inquiries revealed an alarming state of under-nutrition in large sections of the population.

"Thirty-six countries whose trade in 1934 represented some 60 per cent of the total trade of the world devalued their currencies," proceeds the economic committee's report. "Others subjected the import of goods to drastic quotas. Others imposed quotas on exports, and the entry of goods and the exit of foreign exchange and suspended foreign payments."

A WORSE JAM

"In 1932, when production reached its lowest point, the machinery of international trade was badly jammed. In spite of a recovery of production, the jam is even worse today."

"And yet no country deliberately desired or wished for this state of things. All regretted it, all submitted to it reluctantly. But each of them was compelled, when the moment came, as a means of avoiding worse things, to take a part in creating and subsequently in accentuating this situation. 'Moralists, devaluations, extravagantly high duties, foreign-exchange control, quotas—all these succeeded one another as many national reflex actions in the process of self-defence."

PROVOKED REACTIONS

"Every time a country resorted to one of these measures for defence, it provoked similar reactions not only in the countries with which it was directly connected, but also sooner or later, and with the rebound, with every other country."

"It makes little difference where or how the first step was taken. Its repercussions were felt all round owing to the interlocking of reciprocal influences, which is the proof—the negative but irrefutable proof—of the economic solidarity of the peoples."

J. S. TAYLOR IS ELECTED

ed Federal member for the Nanaimo riding.

"The contest has been clean, and I express sincere appreciation of the attitude of my friendly opponents."

"I accept the call to this high duty with eager appreciation of the confidence which the electors have shown in the aims of the Co-operative Commonwealth, and with an aching sense of the responsibilities which I now assume."

"The movement for economic freedom is real. The people will not be denied. Political slandering is slowly being swept aside. Let us carry on cheerfully. The goal is sure."

It is doubtful whether the returns from the other polls will alter the standing as reported last night. Those polls to be heard from include Rosehill, Cowichan Logging Company, William Head, Sooke, Pender Island, Mount Newton and one Saanich division.

ALAN CHAMBERS upon hearing the result of the election in the Nanaimo riding, issued the following statement:

"I congratulate Mr. Taylor on his victory, and wish him every success during his tenure of office as representative of Nanaimo riding at Ottawa. Naturally I am disappointed at not being elected, but I am satisfied that during the campaign I conducted a clean fight and made no personal enemies. I wish also to thank my opponents for the fair and tolerant campaign that they waged."

"I am sure that the electors of Nanaimo constituency made their selection upon their evaluation of the national issues confronting them. This is as it should be. I desire to thank my supporters who so loyally worked to secure victory for the principles that I represent, and can assure them that I will continue my best endeavors for the welfare of Vancouver Island."

Mr. Dickie and Mr. Clark could not be reached last night when efforts were made to secure statements.

His Party Meets Defeat

RT. HON. R. B. BENNETT

Whose Government Met Defeat Yesterday, Was Re-elected in Calgary West.

D. B. PLUNKETT IS ELECTED IN CITY

Mr. Plunkett established his lead from the opening of the advance poll, wherein out of forty-eight ballots he received eighteen; while Liberal and C.C.F. nominees each polled fifteen, and Mr. George was blanked. By failing to secure half the number of ballots received by the member-elect, Mr. George will lose his election deposit of $200, the only candidate to have this misfortune.

As additional polls came in, Mr. Plunkett kept his lead by a comfortable margin, pressed at times by both Mr. McDowell and by Professor Gordon, who alternated in the returns until finally the C.C.F. nominee drew ahead to finish in second place. Mr. Plunkett's majority was 968.

Contributing to the largest vote on record here was the fact that boundaries of the Victoria riding had been enlarged to take in Esquimalt municipality and the Saanich wedge, in addition to Oak Bay, previously absorbed into the city for Federal purposes. Added to that was the unusual keenness interjected into a four-cornered contest following keen campaigns steadily waged for the last six weeks.

LARGE TURNOUT Yesterday's election compared with the 1930 poll in Victoria, when 14,749 votes were cast, of which Mr. Plunkett received 8,308 and his only opponent, Stuart Henderson, Liberal, 6,344.

The polls opened yesterday at 8 a.m., with line-ups at some of the 108 polling divisions, with their massed booths totaling 138. Voting proceeded steadily, if slowly, in the morning, quickening in the early afternoon, and reaching the peak after the close of business premises and public offices in the late afternoon. Polls closed at 6 p.m. Of 28,902 electors eligible to vote, 21,233 made their way to the polls and cast counted ballots. Spoiled or rejected ballots could not be estimated last night, but must have been several hundred in addition. The record poll was established in a drizzling rain that kept up intermittently all day.

Massing bulletin services, The RESULTS DECISIVE

Colonist and The Times delivered a fast press service of the results as they became known at each of the 138 polling booths, distributed over 105 premises in residential sections of the city. Final reckoning of the figures today may add slightly to the totals, but will not alter the standing of candidates in any material respect, it is believed.

Election returns from the Maritimes began arriving in the city shortly after 2 p.m., corresponding with the close of polls on the Atlantic Coast. If Liberal victories in the East reached the ears of the public here, they failed to show in the Victoria results.

D. B. PLUNKETT

At an enthusiastic reception in the Conservative Rooms, where he was cheered to the echo by hundreds of his supporters, and again over C.F.C.T., when he spoke directly to the electors through the combined facilities of The Colonist and The Times following the completion of election returns, D. B. Plunkett, member-elect for Victoria, gave cordial thanks for his election.

"To all citizens of Victoria, of whatever party, I pledge my service faithfully. May I thank you tonight for the handsome and decisive majority you have given me, in what was a very strenuous campaign. I wish to extend a message of goodwill to my opponents, and to congratulate them on the substantial votes they polled. I wish, finally, to thank the press, which has reported the campaign so fairly," Mr. Plunkett said.

FLEDGES SERVICE

To a reception in his honor in the Conservative rooms, the member-elect repeated his pledge of service to all citizens, irrespective of their political leanings. The campaign, he said, had been keenly waged, and recrimination in the heat of battle should be forgotten and would be on his part. The defeat of the Bennett administration, he said, was due in part to inroads made within the party itself by the thanks are extended to the press of this city," Mr. George concluded.

By the election of Mr. Plunkett yesterday, Victoria retained its unbroken record as a Conservative constituency of more than thirty years' standing.

The reckoning of ballots will proceed today, before Mr. Child.

NAVAL EXPANSION FOR U.S. DISCLOSED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14 (P.)—Construction of one battleship, twelve destroyers and six submarines and an expansion of the enlisted strength of the United States Navy to 100,000 men were disclosed at the department today as in contemplation for the 1937 fiscal year.

Under the London Naval Treaty, which expires on January 1, 1936, battleships may not be constructed. Officials said it was hoped to construct a battleship in 1937 after January 1.

NOT LIKELY TO ACCEPT TERMS

Striking Vancouver Longshoremen Have Opportunity to Discuss Agreement

VANCOUVER, Oct. 14 (P.)—Striking Vancouver longshoremen will be given an opportunity tomorrow night to consider a proposal submitted to the central strike committee by the British Columbia Shipping Federation, a strike spokesman said tonight.

However, the spokesman said, it was unlikely the men would accept the terms, which neither party has made public.

The federation drew up the proposal following private conferences with representatives of the strikers which were instituted by Mr. Justice H. H. Davis after he concluded an inquiry into the waterfront situation recently.

The strike spokesman said the men would probably refuse the proposal "without even discussing it thoroughly."

defection of Hon. H. H. Stevens.

He was glad to see that Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett remained to lead his party in the new House.

"To my own supporters and friends, may I say that I think no greater honor could be paid to a candidate than to be returned three times in succession, and by such a decisive majority," Mr. Plunkett concluded.

PROF. J. KING GORDON "As far as the C.C.F. is concerned, it has been a great battle and the battle begins again tomorrow," Prof. J. King Gordon declared, shortly before he addressed an audience of 800 of his supporters at the Chamber of Commerce Rooms.

"I have been overwhelmed since the campaign began with the enormous support and campaign put on here without campaign funds and against heavy odds. If you look at the wider aspects of the election, hundreds of thousands of people across Canada are awakening to the desperate nature of our social and economic situation."

"I am convinced that history is on our side, and that it is only a question of time until our movement is large enough to insist on an intelligent change in the basis of our economic structure."

"The fight here was clean and free from personalities, and I send my congratulations to the winner. I would like also to express my appreciation of the fairness of the press in the whole campaign," Prof. Gordon concluded.

C. J. McDOWELL

Given three cheers by his campaign committee and supporters after the poll results were definite, Mr. McDowell congratulated Mr. Plunkett and commented on a clean campaign without personal attacks. He maintained that Liberals had held their support in most wards, with the exceptions of Wards One, Two and Three, where, he said, defections to the C.C.F. had been noticeable. The enlarged riding also had made a difference, he declared.

Though going down to defeat in Victoria, the Liberals had achieved a major victory across Canada and would work to restore the fortunes of the country, Mr. McDowell continued. Third parties, he predicted, would pass out of existence with recovery, as their support was based on unrest of the people under severe conditions. Mr. McDowell closed with an appreciation to the press for unbiased reports in the campaign.

P. E. GEORGE

"The people's mental reaction to this four-cornered high-pressure election campaign has, after a day of rest and meditation, been indelibly registered by the election of Mr. Plunkett, Conservative candidate. Permit me to extend my congratulations to Mr. Plunkett upon the victory accorded him at the polls," Mr. George said.

"My deep appreciation and thanks go out to the many supporters and workers who endorsed my appeal for an opportunity to help govern this great country of ours with more humanity and Christian application of ideals. In closing, my

SAYS PEACE IS POSSIBLE, BUT ON CONDITIONS

Pompeo Aloisi's Broadcast Criticizes Policy of League of Nations

MAKES CLAIM OF SELF-PROTECTION

ROME, Oct. 13 (P.)—Baron Pompeo Aloisi, chief Geneva envoy of Premier Mussolini, tonight broadcast a plea for fairness direct to North America—a plea which Great Britain's postoffice refused to relay last week.

A peaceful settlement of Italy's war with Ethiopia, he said, is still possible "but only on two conditions." The League of Nations, he asserted, must discard its "policy of two weights and two measures," and the League Covenant must be made to "harmonize" with the changes of modern times.

Aloisi spoke in English, answering questions from the microphone. Asked if Italy had not broken her word under the Kellogg Pact, he replied: "No," and cited reservations to that treaty by the British Government and United States Senate. Great Britain, he added, refused to "limit its freedom of action in certain parts of the world."

Italians, said the Baron, are "exercising our rights of self-protection in Eritrea and Somaliland." The borders of these colonies in the last ten years had seen "about ninety incidents." Ethiopia was not a coherent state but a "vast belt of conquered colonies."

The speech originally was arranged for last Thursday night from Geneva, but, just as he was preparing to broadcast, word was received that the British postoffice had refused to allow it to be relayed by an English station.

In every estate there occurs an inevitable shrinkage caused by succession duties, taxes, and debts. Frequently, in order to pay these items, some of the assets must be sold at a sacrifice.

C.C.F. SHOW ENTHUSIASM

Prof. J. King Gordon Says Party Is Not Downhearted—Is Given Big Reception

As Professor J. King Gordon, defeated but smiling C.C.F. candidate, strode along the aisle of the Chamber of Commerce auditorium, where the Co-operative Commonwealth Party was holding a post-election party last night, some 600 persons raised their voices in cheers, whistled and clapped their hands.

"We are not downhearted, and we are just beginning to fight," Professor Gordon told the gathering, which immediately applauded his statement.

"I came into the constituency of Victoria a stranger, but I feel a stranger no longer," he said, in voicing his appreciation of the loyal support given him throughout the campaign.

FORESEES VICTORY

He added that he foresaw the day when the Co-operative Commonwealth would be directing the affairs of the country. "There is nothing under God's heaven that can hold back our movement," Professor Gordon declared.

Rev. Robert Connell, Provincial leader of the C.C.F., was also afforded a rousing welcome.

Although the party had not elected its candidate, the work was not wasted, Mr. Connell pointed out. He added that "sometimes it takes a defeat to spur us on to real victory. Where we have fallen down is that we have failed to go on with our study groups," the speaker asserted. He charged that many C.C.F. had been engaging themselves too much in the study of Social Credit.

ANOTHER ELECTION

The campaign, Mr. Connell declared, had been marked by bitter and vile misrepresentation on the part of the forces in opposition to the C.C.F. The local newspapers were above reproach in this, however, he added.

As he thought it would not be many years before another Federal election would be held, Mr. Connell strongly advised the C.C.F. party here to pursue their study groups through the winter.

J. T. Stott, chairman, appealed to the gathering to enlarge the membership of the party. "We must consolidate the work done and build on it for the future. We should start next week for the next provincial election," he said. Mr. Stott, too, stressed the value of study groups.

LAWYER OPENS ANOTHER ROUND

Starts New Proceedings in Fight to Save Life of Hauptmann

JERSEY CITY, N.J., Oct. 14 (AP)—Egbert Rosecrans, one of Bruno Richard Hauptmann's lawyers, started the legal proceeding today to save Hauptmann from the electric chair while his attorneys are carrying his fight to the Supreme Court of the United States.

Rosecrans appeared before Chancellor Luther A. Campbell and made application for a stay of execution of the death sentence, pending a request that the Supreme Court grant Hauptmann a writ of certiorari.

Rosecrans asked for a stay of the writ and judgment. Chancellor Campbell suggested that the application be made before the full Court of Errors and Appeals in Trenton tomorrow. Rosecrans agreed to do this and notified the Attorney-General's office that such application will be made.

Should Rosecrans' application be granted, Hauptmann's execution will be held up, pending Supreme Court action.

LADYSMITH PIONEER LAID TO HIS REST

LADYSMITH, Oct. 14.—Funeral services were held yesterday for Thomas Webley, aged eighty-six years, a pioneer resident of Ladysmith. He was one of the first citizens of this city, and had resided on the island for nearly half a century. Born in Wales, he moved to the United States while a young man and eventually came westward to the island.

He is survived by three sons: George, of South Dakota; Thomas, of Ladysmith, and John, of Vancouver. Pallbearers were all officers of the local Knights of Pythias, of which Mr. Webley was a member of many years' standing. Rev. B. Epton Spurling officiated, and interment was made locally in the family plot.

CANADA FREE TO MAKE LAWS

Status of Dominion Under B.N.A. Act Defined for Women's Council

Continuing the study of the British North America Act, inaugurated at their last meeting with an address by Dr. Kaye Lamb, provincial librarian, the Local Council of Women yesterday listened to a most able discourse on the subject by Mrs. M. E. Godson. Dr. Olga Jardine will continue the study at the November meeting.

Dealing first with Canada's place as a member of the Commonwealth of Nations, Mrs. Godson pointed out that this Dominion within her borders was practically independent, free to make her own laws, including separate trade and political treaties, but not separate peace or war treaties or changes in her constitution.

Canada, like each of the other Dominions, was at liberty to decide for herself how far she chose to participate in hostilities begun by a fellow member; if she chose she might preserve complete neutrality. Great Britain, though equal in status, was superior in function to the Overseas Dominions, and frequently would have to make decisions alone on international matters which directly or indirectly affected the Dominions, she stated. This had already been witnessed in the case of the Treaty of Lausanne, the treaty with the Soviet Union, the Locarno Pact, and the treaty with India.

INTERNATIONAL PRESTIGE
It was shown, too, that Canada now had more international prestige, and enjoying the free use of the British diplomatic and consular service, might now negotiate directly with foreign governments.

As a member of the League of Nations, she was pledged to internationalism, to assist in all the activities of the League, to the principle of settling disputes by arbitration, and to abide by the League decisions as to sanctions to be applied. Inter-commonwealth disputes were, of course, excepted from the operation of League machinery.

In interesting detail Mrs. Godson rehearsed the conditions prevailing under the Constitution of Canada, which was described as partly written, partly unwritten, the latter part embracing all the ordinary conventions and usages of the British Parliament.

HISTORICAL
The historical circumstances out of which the B.N.A. Act arose prevented it from being as complete and logical an enactment as it might otherwise have been, it was noted. Racial, linguistic, social, economic, geographical, and even sentimental forces militated against its perfection. The foundations of the federation could only be laid by such a balancing of these forces, at the moment, as would produce a general plan on which union might be formed. The result was a working agreement, and the triumph of the federal idea was not endangered by attempting anything like a balanced distribution of legislative power, thus leaving the courts free to deal with concrete cases as they arose. The courts, appreciating this freedom, had avoided stereotyping the interpretation of each specific power, and had followed the principle of reading the B.N.A. Act as a statute, considering it as a whole, and refusing to isolate clauses.

Members were recommended to read an article on "Rewriting the Canadian Constitution" which appeared in The Canadian Forum of March, 1935.

On behalf of the Council, Mrs. C. C. Spofford, the president, very cordially thanked Mrs. Godson for her illuminating talk.

LIVED IN CITY TWENTY YEARS

Frederick W. Godsal, Well-Known Resident, Succumbs At Family Home Here

A well-known resident, Frederick William Godsal, passed away in Victoria on Sunday, at the family residence, 1917 Hampshire Road, after a short illness.

Son of the late Philip William Godsal, of Iacody Park, Shropshire, England, Mr. Godsal was born in England and educated at Eton and Oxford. He was a keen sportsman, while at Oxford having the distinction of rowing for the University in the Oxford-Cambridge boat race. He was also keenly interested in mountaineering, and since coming to Canada, had climbed with the Alpine Club at the Summer camps in the Rockies. He was also a member of the local section for many years.

He traveled extensively, and at one time was a coffee-planter in Ceylon. He was the first settler to acquire land near Calgary, to which place he was introduced by Lord Lorne, and since he came to Victoria twenty years ago, to make his home here, he had returned to his old home in the Prairies on several occasions to renew acquaintance with pioneer friends there. He possessed a strong personality, had a great love for his adopted country, and was fearless and eloquent in his enthusiasms, among these being the British-Israel movement. He was a staunch churchman.

Besides his widow, living here, he is survived by one brother, Major William C. Godsal, of Haines Hall, Berkshire, England; and several nieces and nephews, all in England.

The funeral services will be held at Haywards' Funeral Parlors at 3:30 p.m. today, Rev. Canon Stocken officiating, to be followed by cremation in Vancouver.

YESTERDAY'S LIBERAL VICTORY

The magnitude of the Liberal victory in yesterday's Federal election illustrates the difficulty any Government has in retaining office after experiences such as the economic depression of the past five or six years. It was unquestionably the depression, more than any other factor, that was the incentive for the people to defeat the Bennett Administration. It might well be questioned if any legislative programme, no matter how contrived, could have won a renewed mandate for any Government, no matter of what political color, that was in office in the Dominion during the last few years. The hotch potch of candidates, the advent of two new political parties in the field, illustrated the character of public thought. It is true that the new parties made a miserable showing. One of them, that of Mr. Stevens, had, however, the doubtful satisfaction of being instrumental in causing the Conservatives to lose several seats won in the previous election by that party.

The lesson of the election is that the people want a change of Government. It is true that when the aggregate vote is totaled and allotted to the various parties it may be found that the Liberals have not anything like 50 per cent of that cast. That does not alter the situation. The verdict is given, and given substantially, and Mr. King has a definite mandate for the policies he has been preaching during the campaign. His majority, indeed, is so great, and so substantial over all other parties, that he will be able to proceed courageously with his task. In the Maritimes, in Quebec, in Ontario, and to a lesser degree in the West, he has been given support to an even greater extent than expected. It is true there are many instances in which the Liberals have been elected by a minority vote of the ballots cast. That does not necessarily mean, however, that they would not have been elected had there been straight fights in those constituencies between the representatives of the major parties.

The Reconstructionist Party may be said to have cut no figure at all in the campaign. Its formation was a political blunder of the first water. Mr. Stevens was undoubtedly governed by spleen in the course he adopted, and he has got the reward that so often goes to those who are apostates to their political faith. Similarly, though not in so devastating a way, the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation candidates have fared badly, far worse than Mr. Woodsworth, their leader, anticipated. The party cannot be regarded as a political factor, and its few members are a poor return for all the labor and propaganda engineering during the campaign. In fact it appears that the strength of the C.C.F. lies, proportionately speaking, in this Province, which, together with Alberta, may be regarded as a part of Canada where thought on political matters is most chaotic.

Among the Conservatives, after the rousing campaign indulged in by the Prime Minister, there will be much regret that the party could not make a better showing. On the other hand, it is a matter of congratulation to the country as a whole that the verdict should have been decisive and that once again there is little intention on the part of public opinion to dissociate its support from the historic parties of the past, both of which have been instrumental in building up the Canada of today. The election is a lesson on the futility of new parties until such time as there is a definite and far-flung change in the trend of public thought. There is no evidence of that in the result of yesterday's polling. The people want a strong Government supported by a majority in Parliament over all parties. They do not want compromise in legislative enactment.

The election will have done much to clarify thought in the country if it is the means of doing away with third parties. They have been proved to be a superfluousity in the political field. They might easily have led to an indeterminate result, but happily this was not the case. The Liberals will enter office with the strongest of confidence and with a majority in Parliament which should enable them to do those things which they have said so repeatedly in the election campaign are necessary to the development of the Dominion's welfare.

WHEAT MARKETS

A dispassionate view of the wheat situation is given in a recent issue of The London Times. It alludes to the increase in the price during recent weeks and the increases in the prices of flour and bread in consequence. The Times does not believe that artificial measures have played any part in bringing about the improvement in wheat prices. They have been due to intrinsic causes—partly to increased consumption, but chiefly to the restrictive operations of nature. The Times alludes to the reduction of the crop in Argentina and the poor quality of the American and Canadian crops of this year. It says, in the latter respect, that some authorities reckon that 25 per cent of the United States crop will be unfit for milling and that the official estimate of the Canadian harvest is that 60,000,000 bushels of rusted and frosted wheat are unsuitable for flour.

It is difficult apparently to estimate the situation in Russia. The Soviet land has been selling steadily because of the higher range of prices. Australia of all export countries is furnishing the best crop reports. The review was written before war broke out between Italy and Ethiopia. Now that there is war the higher prices for the wheat product are likely to maintain for some time to come. The Times estimates the possibility of the firmness enduring. It points to the increase in wheat consumption in Eastern markets. British consumption is now rather less than before the Great War, and some impoverished countries of the European Continent have reduced their consumption and increased their production to reduce their dependence on foreign supplies. Speaking in a broad way, The Times says that European countries now produce their own wheat requirements. In summarizing the outlook the London paper says:

"The conclusion is that, after a long run of lean years, the wheat grower is in sight of better times in the immediate future, but that unfortunately they are not likely to last long; for the rise in prices is not due to the factor which alone can bring back prosperity to him—namely, a steady increase in the world's consumption as a whole. The scope for increasing wheat production in Britain and certain other countries is not large; more room lies in the East, where the potential market of consumers runs into hundreds of millions. The silver advocates, realizing that it was during the period when silver fetched a high price that the Far East began to eat wheat, have based their case largely on this experience. They have realized also that, in order to raise the standard of living sufficiently to enable the market for the Far East to broaden considerably its demand for wheat, credits would have to be given in the early years of development. But the policy they had in mind must not be compared with the American silver-buying programme, which is not a credit operation in the proper sense. Permanent expansion of the wheat market depends, as in the case of other primary commodities, in the main upon the removal of the obstacles to international commercial intercourse."

RESTORATION OF MONARCHY

The decision to restore the monarchy in Greece is not without its significance in the present political trend of events. It is taken for granted in advance that the people of Greece will approve the move, but they are to be consulted in a plebiscite, which indicates the democratic thought of the present administration. For some time past it has been felt that a monarchy based on democratic institutions is the natural government for Greece. The conception is that such a system best accords with the ancient traditions of the Greeks. The culminating events which led to the latest decision have been the unsettled conditions under a Republic which has not rested on popular foundations. In other words, government has not been stable.

Republicanism in practice in Greece has become discredited because of the politicians who expressed this political creed. The people there want a balance to set against what has been described as "the insolence and the tyranny of elected persons." They expect to find this factor of justice in a King. The change is being brought about in a way that its final endorsement must be given by the people themselves. Therefore the restoration of the monarchy will be broad based upon the people's will.

VICTORIA'S RESULT

Mr. D. B. Plunkett, the former Conservative member, is again the member-elect for Victoria, and his victory yesterday was a very handsome one. It was achieved in the face of very determined opposition, with a Liberal landslide having taken place in the Dominion and with scores of his former Conservative colleagues in the House of Commons going down to defeat. Mr. Plunkett conducted an aggressive campaign. He was remembered by the voters for the good work he has done during his time in the House of Commons, and, as well, in this community there is a strong trend of Conservative thought. He deserves the heartfelt congratulations on heading the poll in a four-cornered fight. He will represent the constituency worthily for another term at Ottawa.

THE SUEZ CANAL

They (the Government) are hampered in their efforts by our ardent pacifists who are advocating a policy of pin-pricks against Italy. One only need be mentioned. It is demanded that we close the Suez Canal to Japanese transports and munitions. Now we have declared the perpetual neutrality of the canal. In 1905 a part of the Russian fleet (after what looked very like a hostile act against the British) passed peacefully through the canal to take part in the war against Japan. And further, the right of Italy and all other states to use the canal is secured by treaty. Treaty claims to set up a super-state are a menace to world peace. Prudent diplomacy has produced a promise which, the fire-eaters declare, merely gives Italy time to strike as soon as conditions become favorable. But no sane person believes that the dangerous articles of the Covenant will be employed in the way of any act of war against that country.

Note and Comment

By R. A. D.

Where eldest Night
And Chaos, brothers of Nature, hold
Eternal anarchy amidst the noise
Of endless wars, and by confusion stand:
For hot, cold, moist and dry, four champions
Dare set on mastery.

—Milton.

He appeared to have been reading The Colonist; but appearances are said to be deceitful—sometimes—for with a sigh which may have been of resignation at the hopelessness of everything, he languidly thrust the offending thing away and said: "Nothing in the paper, as usual." Yet the front page of the paper was bursting with news, news about the result of the Dominion election, news about what the armies of Mussolini were doing in Abyssinia (a considerable part of which may have been propaganda or belly-hoop), news about what the League of Nations was doing or hoped to do with Mussolini and his unique police force, news about what the Liberal Party of Great Britain thought of the outrageous proposal of Prime Minister Baldwin to hold a general election, and much other news of an interesting general election—all collected and distributed by that efficient organization, the Canadian Press. We do not suppose that at any time in the history of the world was there so much news printed in The Colonist and all other newspapers. There was such a deluge of news that the front page could not hold it and it had to be distributed on several of the other pages.

So the old question of what constitutes news must again be discussed. And it appears that what is news to one person is either no news at all or an offence to another person. The quality of news depends upon the attitude of mind of the reader of the paper. If the mind of the reader be out of joint with the popular tendencies of the times, everything printed in the paper jars upon his mind or produces travail in his soul. As long as there is political or social turmoil in the world, there will be something wrong with the world and no hope of that wrong being set right by some inspired leader of the masses of the people.

Viewing the result of the general election in Canada, and hoping that the League of Nations, whose councils are dominated and directed by British statesmen, may put a kink in the ambitions of Mad Mussolini, is the case so utterly hopeless? Is Marx, like the poor and the cynical reader of the news in the papers, to be always with us? Is it inevitable that those who hope and pray for peace are never to enjoy that blissful state of mind which is predicated upon universal tranquility? The popular prophetic pulpits say no and profess to have had visions of Armageddon. The mantle of no prophet has fallen upon our shoulders, and we do not know, but no prophetic attribute is necessary to understand that human nature is what it always has been, and therefore reveals ecstatically in every prediction of a sensational nature. Anything that produces gooseflesh and makes it creep and the blood run cold, the multitude will applaud.

Many things are happening in the world calculated to make us uncomfortable, but nothing is likely to happen calculated to make us afraid. So it is a cheerful thought to think that whatever happens our part of the world and all parts of the world in the end will "muddle through," as has been said of Britain in times of doubt and misgiving. As the soldiers used to sing during the Great War, every cloud has a silver lining, although it may be a long way to the Tipperary of our hopes. In Canada we shall carry on and get there if we adhere to the applied principles of a true democracy.

The bane of the world today is the inclination of some of the nations to discard the principles of government by the people and make hazardous experiments of government under dictators. It is due to the rampage in Europe and Africa. Today Mussolini is having his turn. Tomorrow it may be the turn of some other madman to attempt a war dance upon the political stage. The situation today reminds us of an old fable which stated a problem as to who should have the courage to "bell the wolf" which was ravaging through the forests. Democracies, with all their weaknesses, can settle their difficulties by putting scraps of paper in ballot boxes. There can be no permanent peace in the world as long as governments cannot be elected or rejected by peaceful methods, but must be elected by the methods others have adopted. That is by violence. Parliaments may not be perfect instruments for representation or interpretation of the will of the people, but if there is any system nearer perfection, it has not yet been revealed to the minds of men. As was written by one who appears proached closer to the state known as inspiration than any other mortal: "Rather bear the ills we have than fly to those we know not of."

BY THE EDITORIAL STAFF

Why Even Mention It?
"Thank goodness the election is over" will be the general song of jubilation today, but an unsuspicious public little realize that it is only another fifty-eight days to the civic election. You just haven't heard the boom of civic election explosions owing to the heavy artillery of the Federal campaign.—P.C.R.

Not a Meal for a Month
While evening dresses are becoming more and more voluminous and reverting to the style of our great grandmothers, belted silks seem to be growing smaller as the following item from one of our leading fashion journals indicates: "Bathing suits, being the size they are today, an ingenious woman suggests that we put them away in quart jars, screw on the top tightly, and do not worry about moth."—M.R.

Destructive!
If we must remove level crossings will not someone kindly promise to replace the rails, so that the trains may proceed?—S.G.

Sleep On, Beloved
Hank the Philosopher says, "After listenin' t' all these here election dreams 't' politichuns been apin' I'd say, 'It's a great life if yuh don't waken.'"—W.I.F.

In Days of Yore
Even civic officials become remiss at times. During a meeting in Saanich an Alderman related how he met the girl he married while scorching down muddy Vancouver street on his trusty bicycle. The young woman fell off her bike into a pile of mud and was rescued by the gallant. This started a friendship which culminated in a happy and enduring marriage. . . . On the way back from the meeting, another Alderman painted a word picture of the good old days when a long ride on a hay-filled cart provided fun. Hay burners did not have the speed of benzine buggies, he said, but one could always drop off and snaffle apples from wayward farms. . . . This old-time beat them both. He recollected forty-five years ago he peddled through North Wales for as long as two weeks at a time on one of those bicycles with an enormous front wheel. It was not until some years later he acquired a bike with a frame upon which he could balance his lady friend. . . . All these well-known men have high-powered automobiles, but they say they often long for the days of real sport.—G.B.

A Good Sportsman
No more will the name Blue Ribbons be emblazoned across Canada's basketball horizon. After three years of the greatest success achieved by any Canadian team, the Blue Ribbon Limited has withdrawn its support, which means the passing from the picture of one of the finest sportsmen of them, J. A. Barnard. The six-foot four president and manager of the team has been forced, due to business reasons, to step aside, but he will not be forgotten by the players and citizens alike. He put in valuable time in gathering two Canadian titles in three years of strenuous campaigning, but business comes before pleasure, no matter whether it be in sport or anything else. "Barney" slips to the side lines with pleasant memories of those championship series, memories which will stay with him as long as he lives. Another thing, he played ball with the newspaper boys and therefore we take this opportunity in wishing him greater success in the future. Continue to drop in and see us "Barney" for you will always be welcome.—J.D.

SOCIAL CREDIT
Sir,—It has been my policy to refrain as much as possible from entering into a controversy on Social Credit. I do not think that many, both Liberal and Conservative, have been trying to align the principles of their respective parties with the precepts of Social Credit.

In fact, we have had the anomaly of the editor of The Vancouver Sun stating that "Social Credit is the left wing of Liberal thinking" and also the left wing of the Conservative party (Reconstructionist) plugging (or assuming to be) for Social Credit.

Social Credit cannot be confused, or must not be confused, with the old party ideas. I much rather think that Social Creditors are those who are entirely left the wings of both parties, having grown up. The aggressive attitude of all party speakers against Social Credit is not necessarily reflect the membership of old-line parties, but that of the "leaders" who have been prompted by the financial interests behind them.

Much has been said by all parties on unemployment, and we do not begin to infer that unemployment will be totally eliminated. If I did, I would not be an advocate of the payment of a basic amount (dividend) necessary for the purchase of the God-given right of food, clothing and shelter to every person. Unemployment elimination is the fallacy of all parties, including Socialists; this we can never accomplish.

Social Creditors reiterate that it is the duty of the Government (Provincial and Federal) to organize its ability in the direction that our capacity to purchase is in line with our capacity to produce. This can be done.

We realize also that what has happened in Alberta can happen in British Columbia. Social Credit is not the only movement to challenge the uncontrolled monetary interests and the victory in Alberta is not to be ridiculed, because it bids fair to be a success. It is a growing movement, and with the completion of an organization here, which will put

READY FOR PEACE TALK

Mussolini Indicates Willingness for Discussion With France and Britain

ROME, Oct. 14 (AP).—Premier Mussolini indicated a willingness today to overlook League of Nations "injustices" and to talk with France and Great Britain, under the aegis of the League, about peace in Ethiopia and Italy's needs in East Africa.

Government sources said a League mandate over four provinces of ancient Ethiopia, with Italy in full possession of most of the remainder of present-day Ethiopia, could solve the problem of the satisfaction of Italy, the League, France and Britain.

An authoritative source added the hint that a peaceful solution to the problem was within reach this month.

"By the end of October, I believe there can be useful conversation," this authority said.

What was necessary, Italian spokesmen declared, was that Italy demonstrate its ability to dominate all Ethiopia, if necessary, and that Britain understand its interests would be protected.

Within eleven days of the start of its Eritrean army into Ethiopia, Italy dominated the whole northern Tigre Province, without a single showdown fight, Italian sources pointed out.

ANCIENT JEWISH TEMPLE IS FOUND

Discovered on Traditional Site of Abraham's First Altar To Jehovah

JERUSALEM, Oct. 14 (CP-Palmer Agency).—The discovery of an ancient temple dating back to 3,000 B.C., the early bronze age, on the Biblical site where Abraham was said to have built his first altar to Jehovah, was reported today.

The important archaeological find was made by a Palestinian woman, Judith Krause Marquet, whose work was originally financed by the late Baron Edmond de Rothschild, of Paris, and which is being continued by the French national museum.

Found in the temple were fragments of oblations with unique potsherds peculiar to the early bronze age. Complete fortifications of the structure were also uncovered and reveal that the building was destroyed about 2,000 B.C.

Hallowe'en Hunt to Be Held Soon

A Hallowe'en treasure hunt will be held on Wednesday, October 30, by the Junior Auxiliary of St. Joseph's Hospital in aid of its funds, the object this year being the purchasing of a short-wave therapy costing $250.

Miss Rhoda Goward, the president, conducted the business meeting last night when final plans were discussed. She was chosen as general convener for the hunt, and will be assisted by Miss Kathleen O'Brien and Miss Muriel Richards. Miss Nan Eve will convene the refreshments, assisted by Miss Nan Hutton and Miss Alice Baines.

A pantomime and children's tea is being arranged by the members to take place around Christmas time and in connection with this affair Miss Betty O'Brien was appointed to make arrangements and report at the next meeting of the auxiliary, to be held on November 4. The sum of $50 was realized from the rummage sale held recently. Following the meeting, the members were taken through the laboratory.

Few savage tribes have been discovered which did not dance. The earliest civilization of the Egyptians included dancing and its invention was ascribed by them to their god Thoth.

Value of Drama Subject of Talk

Major L. Bullock-Webster was the speaker at the supper meeting of the Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club last evening at the Y.W.C.A., taking as his subject "Community Drama in British Columbia."

He pointed out the recreational and cultural advantages to be gained from establishing amateur groups and of their particular value as stimulus to the imaginations of women, especially in the rural districts. Drama of the best type had universal appeal, he said, and as an illustration of the appreciation of its value, he said that out of 22,000 high schools in the United States, over one-third had courses in drama. Miss Lillian Parritt, on behalf of the club, moved the vote of thanks to the speaker.

A letter was read from the Soroptimist Club inviting the members to dinner at Speedie's Cafe on Friday, October 25, when the speaker will be Hon. George Pearson, and his subject, "Legislation as it Affects Women."

A bridge party will be held in the B. and P.W. Clubrooms on Saturday, October 26.

Gladys Glad On Beauty

Back in those drear, dead days of hobble skirts and horsehair sofas the highest compliment a girl could receive was to be told that she looked as though she'd just stepped out of a bandbox. The expression was considered a most flattering one, and implied that the girl appeared the very essence of freshness and immaculacy. We seldom use that expression today, but we have a substitute for it. We call a woman well groomed. And we admire a fresh, clean appearance just as much as our forebears did.

The woman who wishes to be truly immaculate never clothes herself in any garments that are not entirely fresh. If she cannot afford large laundry bills, she purchases slips and undies that are washable and that she can easily launder herself. She leaves her home each day with clean handkerchiefs, a clean powder puff, fresh undies and spotless gloves. Her frock is always immaculate and carefully pressed. She keeps a hat brush, a clothes brush and a shoe brush handy. And she uses them frequently.

CHECKS BEFORE MIRROR

The truly immaculate woman knows that the spot for her to feel self-conscious is right in front of her mirror. If her frock is wrinkled; if her stockings have runs; if her neckband or scarf is soiled; if her nails are not clean and well manicured; if she is not immaculate in every detail, she leaves herself in a spot for men's criticism. And that, certainly, is the last thing she desires! For every woman wants herself to be the object of men's admiration.

The woman who truly desires to appear dainty and immaculate also tries to dress the part. She tries to appear sartorially perfect, from the top of her smartly coiffed head to the tips of her well-shod toes. She favors costumes with crisp linings, lousies, or blouses that can be tubbed, frequently. For, like the little midnights of Paris, she realizes that a crisp touch of white, or some pastel shade on a frock, adds greatly to one's appearance of fresh daintiness. And she is fully aware that true immaculacy means not only cleanliness of the body, but cleanliness of apparel and accessories as well.

Editor's Note: To obtain Miss Gladys' pamphlet on "The New Figure" and "Beauty Culture," write care of Central Press Canadian, Toronto, enclosing a self-addressed envelope stamped with a 3-cent stamp and 10 cents in coin for each, to cover cost of printing and handling.

GIRL MAKES CENTURY

LONDON, Oct. 15.—Betty Snowball, one of the best of England's girl cricketers, hit 105 not out in a women's match between the team that toured Australia recently and an England eleven. She opened the innings for the touring team, and was the only player on the side to make more than sixteen.

Little Stories for Bedtime

Peter Finds Veery

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Peter Rabbit had spent a quiet day in the dear Old Briar Patch. As evening approached he decided to go back to hear Melody the Wood Thrush sing again. Just as he drew near the Green Forest he heard from the direction of the Laughing Brook a song which caused him to change his mind and sent him hurrying in that direction. It was a very different song from that of Melody, yet it was the song he had heard before. Peter would have known that such a song could come from no throat except that of a member of the Thrush family.

As he drew near those beautiful notes seemed to ring through the Green Forest like a bell. As Melody's song filled him with the feeling of peace, so this song stirred in him a feeling of the wonderful mystery of life. There was in it the spirit of the Green Forest. It didn't take Peter long to find the singer. It was Veery, who has been named Wilson's Thrush, and by some folks is known as the Tawny Thrush. At the sound of the patter of Peter's feet the song stopped abruptly and he was greeted with a whistle: "Wheeu! Wheeu!" Then seeing that it was no one of whom he need be afraid, Veery came out from under some ferns to greet Peter.

"I heard you singing, and I just had to come over to see you," cried Peter. "I hope you like my song," said Veery. "I love to sing just at this hour, and I love to think that other people like to hear me." "They do," declared Peter, most decidedly. "I can't imagine how anybody could fail to like to hear you. I came way over here just to sit a while and listen. Won't you sing some more for me, Veery?" "Certainly," replied Veery. "I wouldn't feel that I was going to bed right if I didn't sing until dark."

Clubs-Societies

Jubilee Alumnae

The Jubilee Hospital Alumnae's newly-formed dramatic club presented its first play last evening at the monthly meeting of the alumnae held in the Nurses' Home, the president, Miss Rosalie, in the chair. The cast, which was exceptionally well chosen, was as follows: Sally, Mrs. Bothwell; Rosalie, Miss N. Waind; Felicia, Miss Dickson; Mrs. Mounteburn, Mrs. J. McRussett; Mrs. Neesley, Mrs. Burnett; the dreamer, Mrs. Aubrey B. Thompson, and the maid, Miss Fairhurst. At the close of the evening, a social time was enjoyed, and a "show" for the bazaar which will be held on Wednesday afternoon, November 13, resulted in a generous supply of dainty handkerchiefs. Refreshments were served under the convener'ship of Mrs. Russell.

South Saanich L.A.

Rose, fancywork and plain sewing. There will also be a grab bag and candy stall. Afternoon tea will be served by the members. In the evening an entertainment will be held and lantern slides will be shown. After the business a social hour was spent. On behalf of the ladies' aid, a presentation was made to baby Rodney Hafer. Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by the members.

NOT GUILTY IS JURY'S VERDICT

Robinson Acquitted of Participation in Kidnapping of Mrs. Alice Stoll

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 14 (AP).—Mrs. Frances A. Robinson, wife of the fugitive Thomas H. Robinson, Jr., and her father-in-law, Thomas H. Robinson, Sr., heard a Federal Court jury clear them today on a charge of plotting and helping in the $50,000 kidnapping of Mrs. Alice Stoll, wealthy Louisville society matron.

The Robinsons were prosecuted under the Lindbergh Kidnapping Law, which authorizes the death penalty if the victim is injured in an interstate kidnapping. Mrs. Stoll was slugged by Robinson, Jr., and carried to Indianapolis, where she was held captive six days before being released when his wife delivered ransom to him.

workers in municipalities and in the remotest rural polls.

SIGNIFICANT FEATURE
The whole-hearted co-operation of the Liberal Premier and Government of eight of the nine provinces of Canada was an exceptionally significant feature of the campaign and one which may be expected to contribute in no uncertain way to the solution of many of our country's most perplexing problems.

GREAT DELIVERANCE
"It constitutes a great deliverance of the people from mistaken policies, and from autocratic leadership. It is a triumph for broad principles and policies, as against promises and pledges recklessly and extravagantly made for the sole purposes of winning an election."

It is a declaration that tradition, experience and achievement are still regarded by the Canadian people as one of the greatest assets a political party may possess. It is a direct response to the Liberal protest against all forms of dictatorship in Canada, whether they incline toward Fascism, Socialism or Sovietism, and equally against endless and dangerous experimentation in matters of government. It is a direct response to the appeal for the maintenance of British Parliamentary practice and procedure, and it proclaims the end of the super-man idea.

It was thought, however, the Cabinet would discuss a speech to be given by Foreign Secretary Sir Samuel Hoare, October 22, when Parliament reassembles. The speech, in which Hoare will discuss the international situation, was said to be very important, as the Foreign Secretary is expected to deal at length with the Government's viewpoint and future policies on which the electorate shortly afterwards will be asked to place its approval at the polls.

Jane Dixon Says:

LIFE IS REAL AND EARNST, AND WE'VE GOT TO BE GALLANT EVEN ABOUT OUR OWN MISTAKES

Here is a letter to make us STOP, LOOK, LISTEN! Surely those of us who are lighting matches and throwing them into tin boxes will recognize the signals and will stay out of the danger zone.

What can we do to help this man?
"Dear Jane Dixon:
"Perhaps I'm beyond help. But I hope my letter will help other men tempted to make a similar mistake. If they're never been guilty of falling by the wayside, my experience might prevent their doing so."
"For five years I was happily married. If it had not been for my folly I would still be happily married."
"Last year I wrecked my home, completely."
"I met a girl of sixteen at a dance. Somehow we hit it off, together. We danced together several times that night. This was the first girl who had attracted me in the least since I met the girl I married."
"I neglected my wife shamefully that night, but she is so innocent and trusting, so devoted, that she never suspected me. She had implicit confidence and was happy that I should be having such a good time."
"If I had stopped there, all would have been well. But I could not resist the allure of the other girl."
"I continued going places with her. I used the regular working man's alibi—late hours, etc."
"But I worked 'overtime' one time too many."
"I called my wife and told her I had to work late. She believed me. Some friends called and took her to the theatre. Their seats were just behind those of mine and the girls. There I was carrying on a 'petting party' right before my wife's eyes."
"His wife compromised."
"When I reached home that night my wife apparently was asleep. She said nothing to me. But from that time on she was cold. She allowed me to get deeper and deeper in with the other girl. Several times she followed us or had us followed."
"When she had all the evidence she needed she told me 'everything.'"
"Only those who have worn the same kind of shoes will know how I felt. My wife did not make a fuss, as most women would do."
"The look of disappointment on her face will haunt me as long as I live. She was heartbroken. She was not the same person. Very calmly she told me that her clothes were packed and that she was leaving."
"The whole world turned dark, and out of the whirl of it I realized that I cared nothing for the other girl, and that my wife meant all there is in life for me."
"She compromised. She told me what I would have to do if she was to stay on."
"I failed, too, on my second chance. Six months later I came home from work. My wife was gone. I found this note:
"Dear Bert: I tried so hard to carry on. Life did not seem worth while. My lack of faith and confidence in you made me feel that you were so much and I have devoted so much of my life to you. I never expect to find happiness without you. But seeing you every day kept the old wound forever open. I'll try to forget in an effort to make others happy."
"Don't try to find me. I'm definitely gone and have left no clues behind—Jackie!"

HE WANTS ONE MORE CHANCE
"If I only had one more chance with Jackie. I'm certain I could restore her confidence. She was such a good, sweet wife. I had no excuse for going astray. I had everything, freedom, companionship, love—and I wrecked our lives."
"Since Jackie's gone I've never been able to see another girl. If I never saw another it would be too soon—Herbert."

Answer: Well, Herbert, there's no use crying over spilled milk. Is there? Life is real and earnest, and we've got to be gallant even about our mistakes. Jackie surely is a woman with character as well as a loving woman, and I can estimate your loss. I hope Jackie sees your plea and gives you the chance you want so much—not that you deserve it, but that I believe from the sincerity of your letter that you will be able to appreciate the opportunity to win an inestimable happiness.

FEATHER IN HER HAT

by JULIE ARNE MOORE

And then, even as Bill jumped into the pool feet first, they all seemed to realize at the same moment that Fuhrman Wells was no longer one of them.

Carl and Lee were waiting with outstretched hands and together they took the inert form from Bill's arms and pulled it ashore. But not until Carl was about to pull Fuhrman Wells over on his face so that he could pump the water out of his lungs did they see the copper wire wound tightly around the dead man's neck.

CHAPTER VIII

It was four o'clock morning when Ann got out of bed, went into the living-room and turned on the light. She hadn't been able to go to sleep and it was useless to try any longer. She paced the floor for a time. As she turned on one of her rounds she saw Rita standing in the bedroom doorway in wrinkled pale pink pyjamas.

Rita was rubbing her eyes. She yawned and finally crossed the room and curled up at one end of the couch. "I suppose," she said, "you've been reconstructing the crime."

"Something like that," Ann admitted. "Why did you have to walk into such a mess. I'd like to know. If we'd come a day earlier or a day later, or if Bill hadn't met us at the station and Mollie hadn't had a welcome party and invited Selma—"

Ann was walking again, restlessly. It was not so much what she knew that troubled her as what she did not know. For no sooner had they discovered the wire around Fuhrman Wells' neck than Senator Runbrecker had announced that everyone but himself and Carl would leave the scene immediately. Bill had protested at first, but had finally agreed that it would be worth the risk to save the girls the embarrassment of seeing their names and, possibly, their pictures spread over the first page of the newspapers. So Deane Runbrecker had gone off with his sister, Rita had crawled into Bill's car without waiting for an invitation, and Ann had gone with Lee. . . . They had presented a sad spectacle, still soaking wet and thoroughly miserable in both mind and body.

Who murdered Fuhrman Wells?

How had he or she managed it so quickly, and under their very eyes? . . . Who was the man lying on the bottom of the reflecting pool? . . . Had the police made an arrest?

Rita stretched out on the couch and pulled a pillow under her head. "Does it mean anything," she asked, languidly, "that Lee Monday slipped out on Selma and was next seen clinging to your arm?"

Ann halted in the middle of the room. She welcomed this question as she would have welcomed any other that broke the train of her depressing thoughts. "Lee's all right Rita. He's human and—decidedly modest and—not at all what I'd imagined him."

"That," said Rita, "is what I wanted to know. Well, happy landing, darling."

Ann awoke at high noon to find Rita missing, but while she dressed, the living-room door opened and Rita dashed in, breathless, a paper under her arm.

"It was all a lovely detective story," Rita cried, waving the paper. "The man who was in the pool was a dummy and Fuhrman Wells wasn't murdered!"

"What," Ann asked, puzzled, "are you talking about?"

Rita came into the bedroom and spread the paper on the bed. "Read it—and reflect on the far-reaching influence of a United States Senator."

picture of Fuhrman Wells. Then she saw the incredible heading: SENATOR'S SECRETARY ENDS LIFE IN EFFORT TO INJURE EMPLOYER

Fuhrman Wells Reports Own Death. Then Drowns Self in Reflecting Pool

Police Unable to Explain Presence of Dummy "Corps" Found Beside "Dead Man"

"Suicide . . ." Ann said, vaguely. "They can't get away with that. Fuhrman Wells was murdered—in cold blood."

But when she had read the full report, she was not so positive. "The telephone call that had brought them all hurrying to the reflecting pool had been traced to the phone in Fuhrman's apartment. In a drawer not three feet from the phone had been found a piece of copper wire exactly like that twisted around Fuhrman's neck. And on a table in Fuhrman Wells' bedroom had reposed more than a dozen detective magazines and a copy of the suppressed book, "The Fine Art of Self-Destruction."

Rita put a finger on the paper. "Listen—to this, Ann:

"In the dead man's apartment the police found a note which read: 'You know too much to live. If you are not back at work Saturday morning, I'll put you where you can't talk.' It was signed, 'Runbrecker.' Police said the note was obviously a forgery. "Senator Runbrecker at first refused to accept the theory of suicide, but finally agreed that there was no other explanation possible. Wells, the Senator said, had been suffering from a mental disorder. The forged note, together with the fact that the clothes on the dummy "corps" were found to belong to the Senator's son, Deane, formed the substance of the conviction that Wells committed suicide in an effort to incriminate the Senator's family."

"What do you think?" Rita asked when at last Ann looked up from the paper. "Ann was almost afraid to let herself think anything at all. Last night she would have laughed at the suggestion that Fuhrman Wells had killed himself. Yet now, with the information provided as the result of a feverish midnight investigation, it was as plain as day the man had planned every move of last night's gruesome farce. And no one, certainly, had manufactured evidence simply as an accommodation to a United States Senator who wished to avoid unpleasant publicity."

But while Ann's reason accepted what was obviously true, she said in answer to Rita's question: "It makes sense, and it doesn't."

"That," Rita nodded, "exactly expresses my feeling about it. After reading that, I have a doubt Fuhrman was responsible for all the fake telephone calls, for the dummy "corps" and the bomb—and for his own death. And still there's something inside me that says, 'pay no attention to facts . . . Fuhrman Wells was murdered.'"

"I know," Ann said. She pushed the paper aside and lay across the bed. "Which probably proves we're both too stubborn for our own good. Having decided it was murder—and heaven knows it looked like murder—we resent having our minds changed for us, facts or no facts."

Ann and Rita had, without actually thinking about it, taken it for granted that Bill Hudson would stop in some time during the day, but if Ann had expected Lee Monday as well, she had said nothing about it. When they arrived together Ann asked if they felt any ill effects from their drenching in the reflecting pool. And the unofficial inquest was on. Lee admitted he had been surprised to learn Fuhrman Wells committed suicide. Bill insisted he had half suspected as much last night when they were still at the pool. They all talked at once, excitedly.

Some twenty minutes later, when they went out to the street, there were two cars. Ann turned questioning eyes to Bill, but he had already slipped his arm through Rita's and was moving away toward his own machine.

"We're to meet at the Everglades at seven-thirty," Lee said when he was under the wheel. "Any place you want to go, particularly?"

Ann smiled. "As far away from this town as possible, if you don't mind. I need a chance to pull myself together."

"If," said Lee, "you don't mind riding in a sealed cabin with an auxiliary gas tank in your lap, I'll have you in Los Angeles in time for breakfast tomorrow morning."

"You forget," Ann said, laughingly, "that Rita and I begin our careers as government clerks tomorrow morning. Just at the moment I don't think I'd choose Los Angeles, anyway. Elmville's nearer and if you want the truth, I'm homesick."

"Elmville's the home town?" "Hm. And it was never more attractive to me than it has been since last night. That's the baby in me. The minute something happens, I want to run home to my mother and father."

"Elmville," Lee repeated the word several times thoughtfully. "That's west of Hartford, isn't it?"

"Northwest. About three hundred and fifty miles from here, I believe."

Lee nodded and Ann, studying his profile out the corner of her eye, wondered if he were really interested in her—and if so, why? Not in all the city of Washington, very likely, was there a girl who would not have considered it a signal honor to be invited out for a ride with the famous young flier, to be seen with him in public. But here, he was dodging his own crowd to go out with a girl who, socially, rated zero minus and whose only claim upon his time was that accidental meeting in Mollie's apartment the night before last.

"Don't mind if we drop by the airport for a minute, do you?" Lee asked her. "I'd like to have a look at the sardine can that brought me across the country."

Another time Ann would have been elated by the prospect of inspecting the sealed-cabin plane with its celebrated pilot as her guide; but now she could not free her mind of the loose end of last night's tragedy and she felt no interest in anything beyond the immediate possibility of getting out into the country, away from everything even passing familiar. However, courtesy demanded something more than an honest answer and she said, pleasantly enough:

"Of course, I don't mind." And that this had been less than convincing, she added: "If I didn't have to carry that gas tank in my lap, I might propose that you take me up for a bird's-eye view of the city."

Lee turned his head, smiling. His eyes shone. Ann was to come to know that look of mysterious promise, but now the combination of half-suppressed smile and bright laughing eyes meant only that Lee Monday was revealing himself as a most attractive and interesting young man.

FRANCE HONORS NATION'S SONG

Author of Marseillaise and His Work to Be Commemorated

STRASBOURG, France, Oct. 14. — Although the event is seven years distant, Strasbourg and France are preparing to celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of the death of Claude Joseph Rouget de Lisle, the French national anthem, in 1792.

Pre-celebration will be held next year, which marks the one hundredth anniversary of the death of Claude Joseph Rouget de Lisle, French officer who wrote both words and music of the stirring call to arms. He was born in Lons-le-Saulnier, in the Jura Mountains, in 1760, and died in Cholute-Rol, near Paris, in 1836.

Although his hymn electrified France and enthused the repulsed of the foreign invader, Rouget de Lisle lived long in obscurity and even poverty. His declining years, however, were peaceful and happy, with a pension given him by Louis-Philippe.

WHERE FIRST SUNG By an accident the "Marseillaise" is mis-named. It should be called the "Hymne de Strasbourg," for it was not born in Marseilles, but in the Alsatian city on the Rhine. Indeed, Strasbourg has named one of its principal thoroughfares the Avenue de la Marseillaise. Unfortunately, the mayor's residence, where it was first sung, has disappeared.

In 1792, Rouget de Lisle was doing garrison duty in Strasbourg; in his leisure hours he amused himself with poetry and music. He wrote other things, but the "Marseillaise" alone gives him immortality.

It is related Napoleon Bonaparte, on hearing the anthem for the first time, went over to Rouget de Lisle, shook his hand, and remarked, "Thank you—for France." He might have added "for Napoleon," for the "Marseillaise" stimulated the grand army to its victories.

What Today Means

"LIBRA" If October 15 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m., from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m., and from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. The danger periods are from 7:30 to 9:30 a.m., from 12:30 to 2:30 p.m., and from 8:30 to 10:30 p.m.

A sense of false economy may sway the judgment of a good many people this day, with disastrous results. So be careful not to allow it to influence you. In both wholesale and retail circles, bargains of dubious value may be offered, so the wary will not buy without first making an appraisal of the actual merit of the article or commodity offered. Deception must be guarded against in both social and business contacts. Selfish motives might actuate a friend volunteering advice as to the treatment he or she would like you to accord someone else, so take what you hear with a grain of salt. This

Carl Horthy Given Operatic Lead

CARL HORTHY WHO has been acclaimed by critics in London, England, and Continental centres of culture, as an outstanding lyric tenor, is cast in the role of "Lohengrin" in Wagner's opera of that name. "Lohengrin" will be produced at the Royal Victoria Theatre on October 18 and 19, under the direction of Basil Horsfall, by the Victoria Civic Opera.

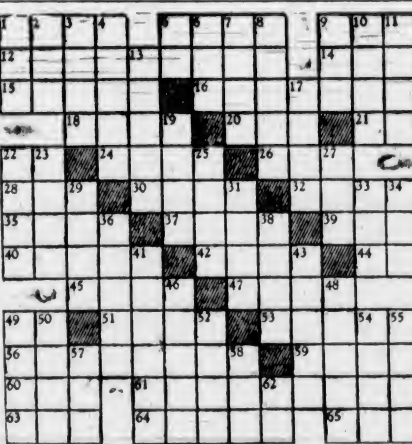

day is an auspicious one for extending the olive branch, but a bad one on which to start a quarrel. Married and engaged couples, and those entranced with the glamorous possibilities offered by matrimony, may find that complimentary phrases will help to create a happy atmosphere, as the recipient is likely to respond to them in a satisfactory manner.

If a woman and October 15 is your birthday, both probably mean a great deal to you. Your social or business success possibly will be due to your mental attainments, rather than physical. It will be a mistake, however, to ever allow any intellectual pursuit to cause you to shun social activities, for friends are likely to be instrumental in helping you to advance your interests. Through your own efforts a latent talent may be developed that has money-making possibilities. You probably have a good many inspired ideas which you allow to go to waste, instead of capitalizing. Writing, painting, sculpturing, designing, interior decorating and selling are among the vocations in which you should excel. Your home life should be happy, as the man you marry probably will be devoted to you.

The child born on October 15 will very likely, by the time it reaches high school age, have fixed ideas as to what professional or business course it wishes to pursue, and it might be unwise to oppose its ambition.

A man and October 15 is your natal day, you are probably gifted with a remarkable amount of will power. If you make up your mind to succeed there is every likelihood you will. Law, chemistry, medicine, engineering, salesmanship, educational work and a literary career are among the mediums through which fame and fortune have the best chance to favor you.

At the Theatres

ENGLISH PICTURE NOW AT DOMINION

Fritz Kortner Plays Title Role in "Abdul the Damned"—Strong Supporting Cast

Claimed to be one of the most remarkable and magnificently staged films shown on the screen for many a day, "Abdul the Damned," tells the story of the rise of the New Regime in Turkey and the events which led to the downfall of the tyrannical Sultan, Abdul Hamid II (a character wonderfully portrayed in the picture by Fritz Kortner, one of the Continent's best actors).

This film, which has been so keenly awaited by cinemagoers everywhere, will be shown at the Dominion Theatre, starting today.

Made at Eclair for B.I.P. by Karl Gline, the noted Continental director, the fine treatment of the film shows the despotic Sultan as he really was—a man surrounded by enemies, who feared that each move he made might bring him death. Important members of the well-known cast each of whom has put forth his best efforts to make the production a screen masterpiece, are John Stuart, Charles Carson, Walter Rilla, Fred Knewell, Clifford Heathcote, Henry Longhurst and Eric Portman.

PLAYHOUSE Paris came to Hollywood for "Roberta," now at the Playhouse, RKO-Radio's de luxe musical romance starring Irene Dunn, Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers. The theme of the gay and tuneful story is love in a Paris gown shop, and the glamour of the French capital is reflected in the settings constructed for the production.

COLUMBIA Betty Jean Hane, eight-year-old screen player, has a most remarkable memory. This was shown in a scene from the Warner Bros. production, "Mary Jane's Pa," which is now at the Columbia Theatre, with Althea MacMahon and Greta Garbo in the stellar roles. One of Betty's scenes ran for two and one-half pages in the script. Betty went through her lines without a single mistake.

LITTLE Two experts in the art of ORPHEUM of screen romance make their first appearance together in Garbo's latest starring vehicle, "The Painted Veil," a film version of the gripping novel, set Maugham novel, which is currently drawing crowds to the Little Orpheum Theatre. One, of course, is the incomparable Garbo. The other is the brilliant English actor, Herbert Marshall.

CAPITOL Three of screenland's brightest child screen players appear with Greta Garbo in her new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture, "Anna Karenina," which opened Saturday at the Capitol Theatre. Freddie Bartholomew, of "David Copperfield" fame, plays her small son, Sergei. Cora Sue Collins, the "Baby Garbo" of "Queen Christina," plays her niece, Tania, and Buster Phelps appears as little Grisha.

Dorothy Parsons Sings in Opera

Probably no better choice could have been made from among Victoria's operatic singers than the selection of Dorothy Parsons for the role of Elsa in Wagner's "Lohengrin," which will be presented by the newly formed Victoria Civic Opera Society at the Royal Victoria Theatre, on October 18 and 19, in full chorus, costumes and stage settings modelled after those in larger centres.

Miss Parsons first won distinction as an opera singer at the Victoria Musical Festival in 1933, when she was awarded the Rose Bowl trophy in the operatic class. She received very high marks, and the unstinted praise of the adjudicator, George Dodds, of Newcastle-on-Tyne, for her performance of Elsa's "Dresden" which is one of the exquisite gems of "Lohengrin." Commenting upon her performance in the operatic class, the adjudicator said Miss Parsons gave "a performance that would grace any of the largest British festivals."

First studying under her mother, who herself is well known to Victoria audiences, Miss Parsons later studied for some years under Mme. Laure de Turczynowicz, director.

SHOW PRESENTED BY WHIZZ BANG

Vaudiville Troupe Gives Benefit Performance at Empire Theatre

The Empire Theatre was packed last Friday night when the Whizz Bang vaudeville troupe staged a special entertainment in aid of the wives and children of the waterfront workers of Victoria. On behalf of the longshoremen, Mr. Robertson expresses sincere appreciation to those artists who lent their talent to make the show the outstanding success it was, and to the public for their wholehearted support.

With Jerry Schofield at the piano as accompanist and with Bill Hansen as master of ceremonies the following players took part: Al Reynolds and Club Continental's orchestra, Doreen Wilson, Dolly Rutledge, Sonia Slavina and pupils, assisted by guest artists from Seattle, Barbara Groves, Lillian Grant, Jessie Pollock, Betty Clair, Duncan McLean, Bill Cobbett, Frank Merrifield, the Cornish Wizard, James Hill, Bill Smith, Boyd McGill, Cliff Prescott, Arthur Groves, W. Derbyshire, Stan James, Tom Obee and Tarka Singh.

NOEL CUSACK PLAYING LEADING ROLE IN PLAY

Noel Cusack is the accomplished, feminine lead in "Ten Minute Alibi." As the distraught heroine, her characterization leaves nothing to be desired. Opposite her plays Bert Bailey, bringing to the play his very considerable talent as the desperate, and—in his desperation, extraordinarily clever young lover. An older, smoother character, extremely plausible, inordinately vain and wicked is played exceedingly well by Bill Lambert.

Gifted young artists do much to make the Victoria Little Theatre Association's mystery drama, "Ten Minute Alibi," by Anthony Armstrong, to be shown at the Empire Theatre on Wednesday, October 16, a memorable occasion in the history of local amateur dramatics.

DEPOSITS LOST MAY BE RECORDED

With Long List of Candidates Public Purse Likely To Benefit

OTTAWA, Oct. 14. — The Dominion general election has already set one definite record, in number of candidates. There may be another record when the returning officers make their official declarations—lost deposits.

The election of 1921 stood as a record-breaker in Canadian political history until the present. In that election there were 631 candidates for the House of Commons, comparatively small in relation to the 800 or more names on the ballots this year. The number of candidates in 1925 was 574; 1926, 532, and 1930, 546.

Under election laws, a candidate loses his deposit of $200 if he fails to poll half as many votes as the winner. In 1921, 197 candidates lost deposits; 1925, 113; 1926, 78, and 1930, 74.

EXTENSIVE WORK DONE FOR LEPERS

H. N. Konkile, Toronto, Secretary of Mission, Will Speak This Afternoon at Y.W.C.A.

The Mission to Lepers is doing commendable and widespread work, according to Rev. H. N. Konkile, Toronto, Canadian secretary to the mission, who is visiting Victoria for a few days. He will speak at a special meeting this afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Y.W.C.A. for all who are interested in the work.

"Leprosy is an age-long malady—the most ancient disease of which history makes record," Mr. Konkile explained. "It is not confined to the Orient, but is to be found in nearly every country, and is, therefore, not necessarily a disease of the hot climate. While it thrives best in its horrid work in tropical and subtropical regions, it is found in Northern climes also, even in Greenland and Iceland."

LEPERS NEAR CITY In Canada there are about sixteen lepers, with five on Bentinck Island, near Victoria, and eleven at Tracadie, N.B. In the United States there are 500, with a possibility of 1,200; in Formosa, 4,000; in Korea, 20,000; in Japan, 60,000; in Siam, 10,000; in Burma 15,000; in India, 200,000, with a possibility of 1,000,000, and in China, 500,000, with a possibility of 1,000,000.

CLUBMEN HEAR MEDICAL TALK

Dr. T. W. A. Gray Outlines To Local Gyros Latest Developments in Science

In speaking before the Gyro Club on the subject of "Recent Discoveries in Medicine," Dr. T. W. A. Gray yesterday contradicted the impression that any might have that Victoria medical men were in any way behind the times in the matter of modern medical and surgical skill. On the contrary, the speaker said that this city was a hive of activity in contacting the outside world in this regard.

Weekly and fortnightly conferences were held by the medical men of the city, and any information that might have been gleaned as a result of the practice was passed on and made available for the practitioners.

MEDICAL VISITORS

In addition to this, there was advantage taken of the medical visitors to Victoria, who might be able to convey to the local medical men valuable information regarding the progress in different lines of practice. In the larger field embracing the practice of medicine throughout the world, Dr. Gray said that medical science was making a noble effort to make men healthy and to prolong life.

In the address the history of medicine was traced, showing a determined effort to ameliorate suffering and to prolong life. Hippocrates, known as the father of medicine, dated back to before the Christian era. He had taken the spread of disease out of the commonly-understood system of that day of belonging to the gods, and made it a matter of common sense.

VACCINATION

After alluding to the early workers in medical discovery, Dr. Gray came to the more modern times when Dr. Harvey made his discoveries with regard to the circulation of the blood. The discovery that cowpox was related to smallpox and the discovery of the practice of vaccination, in which Dr. John Hunter was prominent, played an important part in the science.

The work of Pasteur and, in modern times, the X-ray, were dealt with; and also a reference made to the war on cancer in the attempts to will cells that differed from the healthy ones. Early contact with disease was sought and insurance companies and other bodies were urging constantly periodical examination so that disease might be eradicated in the initial stages.

DISMISS APPEAL OF DEL FONTAINE

LONDON, Oct. 14 (AP).—The High court today dismissed the appeal of Raymond Bousquet, Winnipeg boxer, better known as Del Fontaine, against conviction and sentence of death for the murder of a London waitress, Hilda Meek.

Bousquet was found guilty at Old Bailey for the shooting of the girl. In giving judgment, Lord Hewart said the jury might well have thought the evidence showed Bousquet knew what he was doing and that it was wrong. The court concluded there was nothing in the appeal except what arose from the charge of murder.

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

By Ely Culbertson

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

BIDDABLE SUITS

The constant nightmare of any good player lately has been the length of his trump suit in the combined hand. The success of any trump bid is built around a good trump suit, and if the trump suit is undetermined by repeated forcing, then the entire hand collapses. I ascribe most of the disasters at the bridge table to the sloppy selection of the trump suit. It is bad enough to wreck the hand on the inevitable rock of adverse trump distribution even after most careful bidding. But when, in addition, the player violates the elementary principles of safety in declaring or in supporting the suit as trump, I nominate him a member of the Bumblepuppy Bridge Club.

The average players get wrecked with their weak trump suits because they are blissfully ignorant. The experts do it because they know too much. Lately I have observed many fine players indulging in opening four-card suit bids on trumps as low as ♠ 9 3 2 and responding with as little as 10 8 3 2. They think it is new. It is old and dates back to 1923, when my friend, Mr. Ellis, wishing to be more radical than I, published a book advocating four-card trump suits headed by an eight. Recently I have seen dozens of hands bid by experts mutilated because a weak trump bid is made and partnership is driven to an impossible contract.

If your partner opens the bidding or responds on any kind of four-card suit, how can you get a precise count of losers in that trump suit? And if you cannot determine with fair accuracy the minimum or maximum of losers in a trump suit, give up all hopes of precise bidding, especially in slam. It is well to remind my bridge friends, beginners or experts, that an opening four-card trump bid, particularly in majors, must show a certain minimum honor strength and that this rule cannot be violated except possibly with 4-4-4-1 enclosed in a powerful hand. This minimum is any four-card suit headed by a jack and a higher honor. For instance, A J 3 2, Q J 3 2, K J 3 2. To bid such suits originally you will need a pretty strong hand, at least three honor tricks, and, I hope, a bit more.

More important still, you will need a partner who is not a moron and who will not run amuck by jailing you to the sky with inadequate trump support. The player should be equally careful in raising his partner's suit. For instance, it is true that Q J 3 2 is adequate trump support, even when your partner bid one in a suit and thus may have a weak four-card suit. But it is adequate with more "reservations" than in the League of Nations. Do not lean too heavily upon it. First try something else. Perhaps a no trump. If not, wriggle around a little bit, sigh, hesitate, look sternly at your partner, or even kick him in the shin—in fact, do most anything rather than rush in blindly where angels fear to tread.

TRUMP MANAGEMENT

Because declarer usually has most of the trumps, "trump management" is an important part of his game. Equally important are the plays with which the defenders make the best use of the small number of trumps they hold. Notice in this hand how skillfully East promotes a trump trick for his partner:

♠ 4 3 2
♥ 8 7 6 5
♣ A 10 5 4

WEST
♠ A Q J 8 6
♥ J 3
♦ K 7 5 4
♣ K 6

EAST
♠ K
♥ A Q 4
♦ J 10 8 3
♣ J 8 7 3 2

SOUTH
♠ 10 7 3
♥ A K 10 5
♦ A Q 6 2
♣ K 9

The bidding, both sides vulnerable:
East South West North
Pass 1 ♠ 1 ♠ 3 ♠
Pass 4 ♠ Pass 5 ♠
Pass 4 ♠ (final bid).
Opening lead, ♠ ace by West.

MILTON CUP SOCCER SERIES TO OPEN SATURDAY

Victoria West to Tackle Esquimalt In Opening Match

Greenshirts and Dockers Scheduled to Meet at Royal Athletic Park at 2:30 in Only Senior Fixture—Swan to Referee—De Costa May Play—Two Other Matches Carded

Football's spotlight will swing announced yesterday by Secretary J. R. Jones. The opening round of the Milton Cup series will be played at District Association, it was officially the Royal Athletic Park with Doc Poyntz' Victoria West aggregation facing the hard fighting Esquimalt squad at 2:30 with Referee Dave Swan in charge of the whistle. This will be the only senior tussle on the books, but two second division matches will round out the card.

Sanich Thistles will battle it out with Victoria West at Heywood Avenue grounds, and Esquimalt and Victoria City at Bullen Park. Both arguments will commence at 3 o'clock.

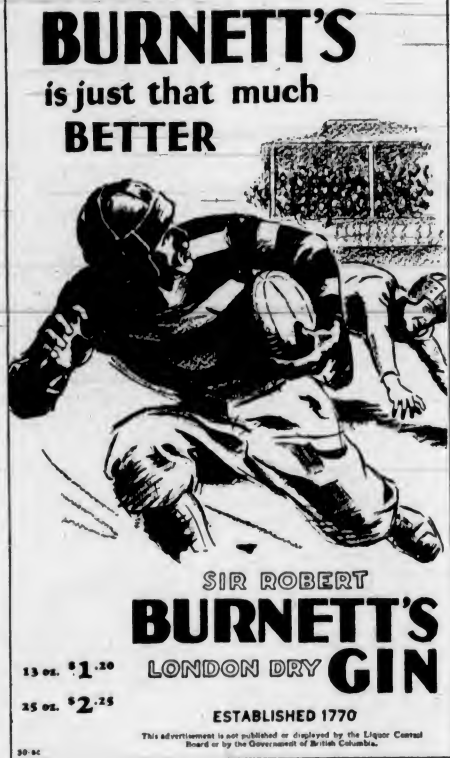

Last year, Victoria City, who started off with a fine winning streak, captured the Milton Cup, the only trophy they won during the season. However, as the campaign continued, Sanich Thistles stepped in and won all the rest of the local silverware up for competition. As in all cup competitions, a half an hour of overtime will be played if the teams are deadlocked at the end of the ninety minutes.

HAVE HIT STRIDE
Victoria West, the squad which dropped their first two matches, one to the City and the other to Esquimalt, came back last Saturday and showed great form with a 5-0 win over the hustling Sanich Thistles. Had the greenshirts any luck they would still be undefeated in the City and Dockers, but their scoring abilities were not up to the mark and they lost to close verdict.

Manager Poyntz has lined up plenty of new material this season and he figures to make the West into a winning aggregation. In goal he has the ever alert Tommy Restall, while on the defence is Doug Laird and Reside, two clever working back division players. On the half line there is Harry Storey, the smooth working Roy Barnes and Ernie Lorandini, a trio which proves a stumbling block to any invading forward line. At right wing is the sure-kicking Gordie Bell, flanked on the inside lane by Neil McCaig. Lambie will probably open at centre with Morgan and Brown completing the left wing combination.

DE COSTA MAY PLAY
There is a possibility that Louis De Costa, one of the finest goalies in British Columbia, if not in Canada, will return to the Esquimalt line-up for his first match of the season. De Costa is fully recovered from his serious illness and is reported ready to get back between the uprights for the Dockers. If he is in the line-up the greenshirts' forward wall has something to worry about for De Costa is a mighty hard man to beat.

Joe Watt and McConnell will be on the back division with Edwards, Evans and McLean forming the middle rank. The forwards are expected to line-up as follows: McAllister, "Scotty" Stewart, Dick Miller, Holmum and Worswick. Cook will be on the reserve list. If De Costa does not guard the net, Alf Hood, who turned in a fine performance against the City last week, will be on the job.

Afternoon and evening sessions will be held, and large crowds are expected on hand. McConachy is one of the ranking stars of the game, and has scored victories over his noted touring mate in recent years. Special seating arrangements are being made for the matches, which are under the supervision of Bert and Charlie Irish, owners of the Metropolis Parlors. Remember When
(Twenty-Five Years Ago)
TOCOMA, Oct. 14.—Miss Coombe, of Victoria, today won the Pacific Northwest women's golf championship by defeating Mrs. Everett G. Origa, of Tacoma, 6 and 5. Miss Coombe played much the better golf and won without trouble.

For the second time this season Victoria Rugby team will turn out in force against the James Bay Athletic Club fifteen at the Oak Bay Park today, and the line-up looks sufficiently good to meet all opposition that it will meet this season for the holding of the championship in the capital city. The game today should be a good one and will give the Victoria representatives a rousing practice for their first match with Vancouver next month for the Cooper-Keith Trophy. The line-ups are:

J.B.A.A.—Fullback, Johnson; three-quarters, Nelson, Sargison, Thompson and Vincent; halfbacks, Carase and Connellson; forwards, Jeffs, L. Sweeney, Brown, Garland, Meredith, Scott and Clarke.

Victoria—Fullback, Cooper; three-quarters, H. Gillespie, McGuigan, Henderson and K. Gillespie; halfbacks, Newcombe and A. Gillespie; forwards, R. Gillespie, Watley, Thorson, Spencer, Simpson, Irving and Milligan.

minority vote, the result is decisive. The Liberal party has been entrusted with the responsibility of governing Canada. I wish them well. Although the electors have expressed their dissatisfaction with the services I have been able to render to Canada, I still regard it as a high privilege to have given my best to the Dominion during the past five years.

"I sincerely hope that Mr. King may derive as much satisfaction from serving the country as I have done.

"To those thousands of people in Canada who so loyally supported our cause I extend my thanks."

STEVENS DISAPPOINTED

OTTAWA, Oct. 14 (P.)—"Naturally disappointed," but nevertheless not discouraged, Hon. H. H. Stevens, leader of the Reconstruction Party, in a statement tonight declared that his vote for his candidates an evidence of "a very powerful body of opinion in Canada definitely favoring reform." Mr. Stevens issued his statement at the moment when a telegram announced his own election in Kootenay East arrived at his party headquarters.

"Quite naturally I am greatly surprised at the extent to which the swing has gone to the Liberal Party," said Mr. Stevens. "It is impossible as yet to make any estimate of the factors that operated to cause this swing. My own opinion is that it is as unexpected as any many Liberal as others. It lays on Mr. Mackenzie King a very grave responsibility."

EXPECTS PATRONAGE

"As far as I am concerned, I wish him well, but I think the people will expect him to use his position to the advantage of the Liberal party," said Mr. Stevens. "I believe further that the people will resent any extreme advocacy of the patronage system which is the chief danger confronting Mr. King in view of the overwhelming majority he appears to have secured."

"While I am naturally disappointed, yet the Reconstructionist vote is an evidence, and a very strong one, of a very powerful body of opinion in Canada definitely favoring reform and inasmuch as the movement was launched on the eve of an election, with no organization and no funds, we ought not to be altogether surprised with the result and certainly not discouraged."

"I would like to take this opportunity to thank the army of volunteers who gave their services so freely and so loyally to the cause, for it must be remembered that the seed that has been planted in the hearts and minds of the Canadian people will, I am confident, ultimately bear fruit."

FLIGHT... by W. D. TIPTON and J. H. MASON

WAR SCENES CAUGHT BY THE LIGHTS

ENEMY NIGHT BOMBERS WERE TRACKED BY SOUND DETECTORS STATIONED AT SEVERAL POINTS SO THAT THE POSITION OF THE BOMBER COULD BE CLOSELY FIXED.

THE LOCATION WAS PHOTONED TO THE SEARCHLIGHT CREWS AND EVERY AVAILABLE LIGHT "FISHED" FOR THE BOMBER. ONCE CAUGHT BY ONE LIGHT, EVERY LIGHT IN THE AREA PYRAMIDED ON IT MAKING A BEAUTIFUL TARGET FOR THE GUNS.

APPLE MARY

DENNIE'S DISAPPOINTED IN HIS SCHOOL. HE THOUGHT HIS TEACHER WOULD BE THAT PRETTY ONE, AND INSTEAD SHE'S TEACHING THE SECOND GRADE.

BESIDES HE CAN'T RUN AND PLAY LIKE THE OTHER CHILDREN. NOT THAT HE COMPLAINED.

BUT HE CAN'T FOOL HIS OLD GRAN'MA. WENT OUT THIS MORNING WITH A FACE AS LONG AS A TELEPHONE POLE.

WHY, HERE HE COMES. SOMETHING MUST HAVE HAPPENED. IT'S ONLY NOON—

GRAN'MA!! GUESS WHAT? OH BOY, OH BOY!!

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

HAVOC

"Ye gods," ejaculated Addison, "what havoc does ambition make among your works!"

An unsavory scutcheon indeed does the word "havoc" bear. Conspicuous indiscriminate slaughter, laying wide waste, destruction and general devastation, havoc harks back to the days of old when the English language was coming out of its shell.

The background of havoc is colorful as it is forbidding. Its grisly aspect is the spawn of the Anglo-Saxon haves, denoting the rapacious hawk; and the Old French havot or hai, vouxi, a cry to hounds to close in on the kill.

"Did you find your trumpet satisfactory, Richard?"

"Splendid, Cap'n. splendid. I couldn't hear a word of the sermon."

NOTED AUTHOR TO SPEAK HERE

Dr. Alex Irvine Will Give Lecture at Fairfield United Church Monday

Completing a trans-Canada tour, Dr. Alex Irvine, lecturer, author, soldier, sailor and laborer, will give an address at the Fairfield United Church next Monday, October 21, following the church's annual Thanksgiving banquet.

Dr. Irvine's subjects will be "What Life Means to Me" and "Biting on the Fence Watching Oneself Go By."

Wherever he has gone, Dr. Irvine has received an outstanding reception. He has a high reputation as a public speaker, and as an author has achieved fame with his book "My Lady of the Chimney Corner," which has gone into forty-six editions.

He also is author of many other books, and his wealth of experience in every walk of life makes him qualified to deal with the human problems that confront the world today.

The banquet will start at 6:30 o'clock, and the lecture will be held in the church after the banquet, so that those not desiring to attend the banquet may still take advantage of Dr. Irvine's visit to hear his lecture in the church auditorium.

Dr. Irvine also will occupy the pulpit of Fairfield United Church at the morning and evening services next Sunday.
